where LNR serves as servicer and one us Chateau on the Lake where Midland is servicer.

We did settle one of the CMBS loans as Your Honor heard at the confirmation hearing. And we settled that by paying approximately 50 percent of the postmaturity default interest, and all actual out-of-pocket expenses. There was no payment with respect to the alleged default arising from the commencement of the bankruptcy case.

The parties agree that there are four issues that are before you, all of which have been briefed: First, default interest arising because of the commencement of these cases or as we call it, ipso facto defaults; default interest arising because of debt maturities that accrued post-petition; yield maintenance prepayment penalties and certain costs and charges.

Your Honor, in our pleadings we had objected to the attorneys' fees only because we didn't have the backup for it. Counsel provided the backup on a supplemental filing. We've reviewed it and decided that the legal fees were reasonable under the circumstances, and so we no longer have that objection.
